

Two Fires the Past Week.

About five o'clock Tuesday evening, an alarm of fire was sounded, the roof of the old foundry of the Baker Mfg. Company's plant having caught on fire. However it was soon extinguished in a short time, with small damage.

About six o'clock last Sunday morning Mrs. Margie Munger's residence was burned. Mrs. Munger had gone to attend the funeral of a cousin, Mrs. Trow, who resides about nine miles west of here, and no one was in the house at the time it burned. It is supposed that the coal stove exploded, and set the building a fire. The house which is located about 2 miles north-west of this city, was one of the old land marks in this vicinity; it was built about fifty years ago by Austin Beebe, and later on occupied by the following well known people: Messrs Richardson; Dan'l Doolittle, John West, F. Van Patten, Cushman and Mrs. Munger.

John Kleinsmith had contracted for the place, and was expecting to move there the first of March. There was an insurance of $600 on the house, but no insurance on the household goods.

Success to him. †

NEW BUILDINGS. In addition to the new block going up opposite our office, there are other improvements going on in our village. Jacob West, Esq., is erecting a large dwelling house on Church street, which will be quite an addition to our village. Mr. Beebe is building a house for himself, on Liberty street, which will be an improvement to that important thoroughfare. Mrs. Sargent is making an addition to her house which will double the size of it.

The addition of a coat of paint to the outside of our Church buildings would be a very great improvement. We hope to see this done this fall. We understand that the lots opposite the Congregational Church are for sale. We hope some one will buy them who will erect on them a good dwelling house.

August 22, 1866, Evansville Citizen, p. 4, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

E. W. BEEBE, M. D.,
HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office at the residence of H. G. Spencer, Evansville.

January 9, 1867, Evansville Citizen, ad, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Married. At the residence of the of the bride's father in Evansville, on Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1866 by Rev. J. I. Foote, E. W. Beebe, M. D. of Stoughton and Frank A., only daughter of H. G. Spencer.

January 9, 1867, Evansville Citizen, p. 4, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. Beebe performed a very skillful and satisfactory surgical operation upon the eyes of a Norwegian girl, who was stopping temporarily in Mr. Sawtelle's family, a few days ago. The sight of the girl's eyes had become so distorted as to render objects almost invisible. The appearance of the girl after the operation was almost a total unidentity of the same person.

December 28, 1870, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

E. W. BEEBE,

HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
Office next door to Winston & Bennett's store,
Main street, Evansville Wis. vinitf
Office hours from 8 to 9, a.m. and from 1 to 2, p. m.

March 29, 1871, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Dr. Beebe informs us that he has as much business as he can attend to, at his new Hydropathic Treatment Institution. Squeeze is another patient, Dr., and let the REVIEW profit by it.

April 26, 1871, Evansville Review, p. 4, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

OCULIST and AURIST.

DR. BEEBE having spent the winter as a private pupil of Prof. H. Knapp of New-York, recently Professor of of Ophthalmology and Otology in Heidleburg University, Germany, and also having a diploma from the New York Homæopathic Eye and Ear Hospital, is prepared to treat all diseases of the Eye or Ear, and perform all Surgical operations that may be required for the radical cure of the same.

By recent improvements made in these branches of surgery, many cases are now amenable to treatment which have been heretofore considered incurable.

439m

E. W. BEEBE.

June 26, 1872, Evansville Review, p. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. Beebe can invent a sewing machine as well as dispense little pills. We noticed a rough model for a sewing machine that he is getup, which looks as though he had really studied out an entirely new principle, for that useful household implement.

August 14, 1872, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

NOTICE.

ALL persons indebted to the undersigned, for medical attendance, are hereby respectfully invited to settle the same immediately, and insure prompt attendance in the future; for like other public servants, we must give the preference to those who pay us promptly.

25,000 bushels of oats and corn wanted on account.
E. W. BEEBE.
Evansville, Nov. 4, 1873. 20w4

November 6, 1872, Evansville Review, p. 4, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin is —We witnessed the operation of r- straightening a "cross" eye, Satur-ill day, by Dr. E. W. Beebe, Mr. C. R. to Cole furnishing the eye to be operated upon. It is a no unusual feat in modern surgery, although not n- practiced by the profession gener-s- ally, neither does every person

 n. possess the organ requiring an ope-o- ration, although it often becomes of sight as well as an improvement to so looks. An operation was performed s, on the left eye some months since, r- which proving so satisfactory that id to repeat the operation on the othn- er eye was the object of our visit
 d. Saturday, to witness. The patient is being under the influence of chloro-ft form the operation was not at all n- painful. The Dr. has made the a anatomy of the eye and ear a close study, and treats the most critical cases with entire satisfaction.

November 27, 1872, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Saturday evening, last while our citizens were in attendance at the Musical Convention some imps of darkness in human form, amused themselves by breaking into houses, stealing, and cutting up generally. Rev. J. W. Harris was astonished on his return to find that his house had been broken into, and completely ransacked, although no valuables were taken. Mr. Henry Spencer's house was next visited. Entrance was gained by using a pair of old shears to pry open a rear door. Some twenty-five dollars in money was taken from Dr. Beebe's room and other valuables, belonging to Mrs. Beebe, amounting to nearly as much more. The following night his corn crib was molested.

February 12, 1873, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

We are pleased to notice that our fellow townsman, Dr. E. W. Beebe, is highly complimented for a valuable paper read before the Illinois Homeopathic Association, during their late session at Chicago.

June 4, 1873, Evansville Review, p. 4, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Village Election. The following is the ticket elected yesterday. The election was animated, but we think no bad blood was spilt. The old question of "billiards or anti-billiards" was a vital issue, resulting in favor of the anti-billiard party by a small majority. For President: A. S. Baker; For Trustees, Caleb Snashall, David Stevens, Lewis Spencer, E. W. Beebe; For Clerk, Homer Potter; For Treasurer, R. Winston; For Justice of the Peace, Jacob West; For Constable, Henry Hubbard; For Supervisor, A. S. Baker.

March 7, 1877, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

A diamond edition of Hahneman appeared in Dr. Beebe's family the other night. Happy congratulations greet the Dr. Mother and son are doing well.

December 31, 1877, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. E. W. Beebe started for Milwaukee Tuesday morning where he will continue practice as an oculist and aorist. The doctor's fame as an auricular and optical surgeon is extending.

January 14, 1880, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Dr. Beebe leaves today for Milwaukee where she and the doctor expect henceforth to make their home. Dr. Beebe has been there three weeks.

February 4, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

We understand that Dr. Bulson, of Brooklyn has purchased the residence of Dr. E. W. Beebe, and will shortly move to town. The more, the merrier.

March 3, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. E. W. Beebe and Mrs. Beebe came up from Milwaukee, Saturday evening. The Dr. Went back Sunday night. Mrs. Beebe will remain for a couple of weeks. The doctor reports business with him as being prosperous with flattering prospects for the future.

March 3, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

34 North Madison

Researched and written by Ruth Ann Montgomery

When Dr. E. W. Beebe, an eye and ear surgeon first started practice in 1870, he opened an office in the home of his father-in-law, Henry Spencer, at 128 West Main Street. He and his young wife were also living with the Spencer's.

Four years later, Beebe decided to build a clinic for his practice and made it part of a very impressive residence near Evansville's commercial district. Benjamin Hoxie was hired to design the structure.

Early in the spring of 1874, Beebe made arrangements to build the house. He purchased a lot from Mary Campbell on the northeast corner of the intersection of Madison and Mill Streets. He paid $200 for the lot. (In 1995 the same land was valued at $14,100.)

Beebe acted as his own building contractor, hiring skilled workers for the various construction phases. The cellar was dug in June 1874 and the stone work was laid by Daniel Huckins and his assistants.

Benjamin Hoxie, who was still living in Cooksville, was the chief carpenter, as well as designer. His chief assistant was Andros Munger.

The house plans included a large room for the doctor's office, private consulting and operating rooms, all with light and good circulation of air. According to a newspaper article, these rooms were painted in "soft mellow tints, each differing from the other; graduating the light as may be suited to the eye of his ophthalmic patients".

The parlors on the first floor were connected with folding doors. Pearl white was chosen as the color for these rooms. There were also rooms for servants, as well as dining and kitchen areas.

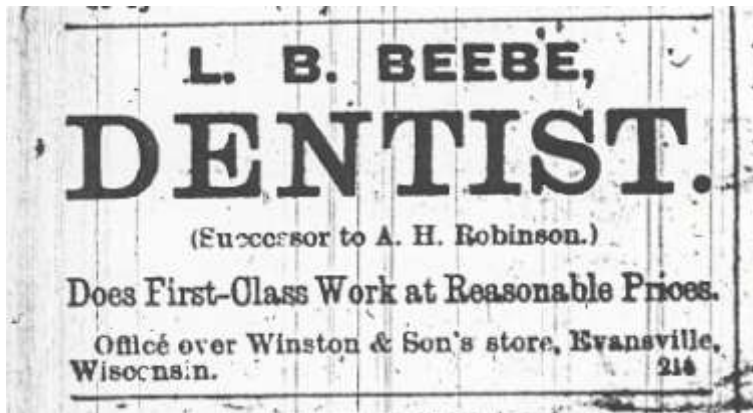

The exterior walls were painted a bright slate color with the corner boards and trim painted in darker hues. The French or mansard roof (the only one of its kind in Evansville) was painted to imitate slate. G. H. Backenstoe was the master painter of Beebe's new home. The family moved into the house in early January 1875. The next summer, Beebe added a fence in the front of the house to complete the project.

Beebe had regular hours at his office in Evansville but also had temporary offices in other cities. In the late 1800s, many specialists, like E. W. Beebe, had a circuit they traveled, usually renting a hotel room where they consulted with patients and performed surgeries. Dr. Beebe practiced in Richland Center and Janesville, as well as Evansville.

A December 1879 article in the Janesville Gazette noted that he had successfully extracted two cataracts, three tarsal tumors and polyps of the ear while on a professional visit to Richland Center. Potential patients were notified they could consult him at the Myers house during his regular hours in Janesville.

His practice became so successful that he decided to locate to the city of Milwaukee and in 1880, Dr. Beebe and his wife moved. For many years, his reputation as a skilled eye and ear specialist was maintained and Evansville residents would travel to Milwaukee to consult with Beebe.

The Beebe's sold the house and medical facility to Dr. H. R. Bulson in March 1880. Dr. Bulson had been practicing for three years in Brooklyn and before that had been a physician for fourteen years in Michigan. During his four year stay in Evansville he built up a "large and lucrative" practice according to an Evansville Review article.

January 25, 1884, Enterprise, Evansville, Wisconsin

DR. E. W. BEEBE, Eye and Ear Surgery and Treatment,
a specialty:
173 Wisconsin Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

1885,

Enterprise ads

Dr. E. W. Beebe, of Milwaukee performed the delicate operation of cutting a tumor from Mrs. Peter Aller's eye-lid, while here New Years.

January 13, 1886, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Geo. S. Brink, Dr. L. B. Beebe and
 F. W. Tolles, went to Milwaukee Monday as delegates to the Grand Lodge F, & A. Masons, now in session in that city.
 W. W. Love was a delegate from Cooks ville lodge.

America's Pride

la th fo
 w hi
 th
 $
 w

June 17, 1887, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

—❖—

LEWIS B. BEEBE, a resident of Evansville, Wis., is one of the leading dental surgeons of Rock County. He was born in the village of Union, on the 20th day of April, 1845, and is a son of Bela and Sarah A. (Chapell) Beebe, both of whom were natives of New York. His parents were married in Madison County of the Empire State, May 4, 1841, and immediately afterwards started for the Territory of Wisconsin, in company with Samuel Lewis, who was one of the prominent pioneer settlers, and Daniel O. Chapell, who for many years was the village blacksmith of Union. He erected the second frame house in that town, and at his home the Masonic Lodge convened for many years. Union was then a thriving little place, full of life and energy, and was the half-way

K COUNTY.

ous station between Madison and Janesville on the old try stage road.

Bela Beebe made his first settlement near Racine, 1850, residing there till the spring of 1845, when he 1851, removed to the village of Union. Soon after he was entered a farm in Rutland, Dane Co., Wis., remov- 111 ing his family to that claim. Purchasing the land (in) from the Government, it was consequently in an un- 100 improved condition. Not a furrow had been are turned, a building erected or a fence made, but he Mrs. at once began the work of development, and in the iza- course of time had a fine farm of 120 acres, on 1000 which he made his home until 1864, when he re- 1000 moved to Evansville, where he resided until after 1000 the death of his wife, which occurred on the 25th 1000 day of March, 1870. She was laid to rest in the 1000 village cemetery of Evansville, and Mr. Beebe then 1000 y in went to Kansas, where he remained until October, 1000 1871. At that time he returned to Evansville, but 1000 five after a short time removed to his present farm in 1000 citi- Magnolia Township. He is a member of the Meth- 1000 ears odist Episcopal Church, to which his wife also be- 1000 past longed, and is a highly respected citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Beebe had a family of eight chil- 1000 dren, as follows: Bela W., who was born May 25, 1000 1843, in Racine County, Wis., and is now a promi- 1000 ent citizen of Brodhead, enlisted in the ranks of 1000 the 2d Regiment, Wisconsin Infantry, in 1861, par- 1000 ticipated in both battles of Bull Run and in all 1000 other engagements of his regiment until the battle 1000 of South Mountain, where he was wounded, receiv- 1000 ing his discharge in 1863, after two years service, 1000 on account of disability attendant on his injuries. 1000 Lewis B., the subject of this sketch, is the second 1000 in order of birth. Hobert D. is now in the employ- 1000 of a railroad, and resides in Kansas City, Mcc 1000 Sarah A. became the wife of Edwin DeLong, a 1000 veteran of the late war, and three children survive 1000 them, both being now deceased. Melvin D. is en- 1000 gaged in farming in Plymouth Township. Rhoda 1000 C. is the wife of Charles E. Carver, a resident 1000 farmer of Harding County, Iowa. Myra J. wedded 1000 Charles Patchin, who is operating a farm in Nash- 1000 ville Township, Martin Co., Minn.; and Willie, who 1000 married Miss Jennie Patchin, is connected with his 1000 father in the management of the home farm.

The subject of this sketch received his education in the common schools of Union Township and in the Evansville Seminary. His early life was spent upon his father's farm until the age of nineteen years, when, in 1864, he left the parental roof and enlisted in the service of his country as a member of Battery G, 2d Illinois Light Artillery. He joined the command at Nashville, Tenn., reaching the regiment just in time to take part in the battle at that place. Battery G was then sent to Eastport, Miss., where it remained in camp until February, 1865, whence it was ordered to Cairo, Ill., and on to New Orleans, La. It then proceeded by water to Mobile, Ala., participating in the siege against that city in April, 1865. Continuing on to Montgomery, Ala., it was there encamped until August, when it was ordered to Springfield, Ill., and discharged from the service.

The winter after his return, 1865-6, Dr. Beebe attended school at the seminary at Evansville, and the following spring went to Beloit, where he worked at the painter's trade until autumn. He then again entered the seminary, continuing his studies until the winter of 1869-70, when he engaged in teaching school in Spring Valley. While following that profession, he made the acquaintance of Mrs. Sylvia M. (Sprague) Palmer, and on the 15th of September, 1870, they were united in marriage. Mrs. Beebe is the daughter of Almerin and Asenath (Noyes) Sprague (who were early settlers of Spring Valley, formerly from New York State), sister of Hon. Burr Sprague, of Green County, and Mrs. Nellie A. Palmer, wife of N. S. Palmer, of Spring Valley, whose sketch appears elsewhere in this work. The young couple began their domestic life upon a farm on section 33, Magnolia Township, Mr. Beebe teaching school for several successive winters. In the spring of 1879, Mr. Beebe, desiring to follow a professional career, then abandoned agricultural pursuits, and accepted the position of student in the dental office of Drs. A. H. Robinson and Geo. Rollock, under whom he pursued his studies for two and a half years. In the fall of 1882 he purchased his present office and established business for himself. He is a close student, well posted on everything pertaining to his profession, has all the latest improved appliances, and is conversant with the newest methods. For the past ten years he has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession, and has won for himself a liberal share of the public patronage.

Two children grace the union of Dr. and Mrs. Beebe—Helen June, who was born June 15, 1882; and Gordon A., born Aug. 27, 1886. He also supplies a father's place to the three orphan children of his sister, Mrs. DeLong, who died in one of the southwestern counties of Missouri. At her death he went to the bereaved home, bringing back the remains of the loved sister, whom he laid to rest by the side of their mother in the Evansville cemetery. Socially, Dr. Beebe is a member of the Masonic Fraternity, the I. O. O. F., the Modern Workmen of America, and T. L. Sutphen Post, No. 41, G. A. R., all of Evansville, and his wife is a member of the W. R. C., No. 28, Auxillary to Post No. 41. The Doctor has not only been an eye-witness of the many changes that have taken place since his birth in the little village of Union, but has been an active participant in the great work of transformation. Where once the wild and undeveloped prairie stretched away to the horizon are now rich and fertile farms; school houses, churches and business institutions have been erected, and the county is populated with an intelligent and contented people. To the pioneers this change is largely due, and to Dr. Beebe belongs a large share of the public gratitude. Politically he is, and ever has been, an ardent supporter of the Republican party, and has filled various township offices of trust, serving now as Notary Public, Village Trustee and Pension Agent. He is one of the leading and enterprising business men of Evansville, and is a member of the Business Men's Association, and a respected citizen, and while he is yet young in years, he is really one of the oldest settlers of Rock County, and is now living within three miles of his birth-place.

—+—+—+—

BENJAMIN BROWN was born at Framingham, Mass., June 8, 1803, the youngest of eight children. His great-grandfather, Joseph Brown, born at Wabertown, near Boston, in 1679, and his grandfather, William, were Congregational deacons. His mother's father,

--Cummings & Clark have given the Odd fellows a five years lease the whole upper part of their street. They are having the tenements the south end fitted up for a building which will give a suit of nice rooms that purpose. The middle room will be fitted up for a refreshment place. The north end of the building will be retained by Dr. Beebe for doctor's rooms. We understand the rooms first fitted up in McKinney's building for a hall are to lease.

—Young man don't wait if you want
June 25, 1889, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Dr. L. B. Beebe calls our attention to a very flattering description of the reunion of Battery G, 2d Ill. Light Artillery published in the Rochelle, Ill., Register of June 28, '90, which occurred on the 29th inst. near Rochelle, Ill., at the home of Mr. Wm. McDowell, a comrade of the Doctor's in the above named battery. From the reading of the article we should judge that the Dr. and his comrades enjoyed a very pleasant meeting with the number which they could muster after twenty-five years of separation being only thirteen. The old soldiers will soon be out of your way boys and the clamor for their rights or wrongs will soon cease, but there will always be a political element left to fight the battles of their wrongs which every son and daughter of them should be taught to understand thoroughly and remember long after their parents and grand parents have ceased to exist. The misrepresentations of the large amount now paid to soldiers must soon in accordance with natural events be reduced to so insignificant an amount that the meanest copper head grumbler must cease his grumbling, and our curses comrades should ever be upon this class of grumblers.

July 1, 1890, the Tribune, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

L. B. BEEBE,
DENTIST.

Does First-Class Work at Reasonable Prices
GAS ADMINISTERED, IF DESIRED.

October 3, 1893, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Dr. L. B. Beebe has just succeeded in getting an increase of pension for Alonzo Halstead, deceased, amounting to $17 per month. This is a very liberal pension, but came too late to benefit the worthy veteran, as Mr. Halstead was summoned to "bivouac among the dead" ere it reached him. The amount will be made payable to the order of his widow. Thus helping her to some of the comforts due a soldier's widowed wife.

April 5, 1892, Evansville Review, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

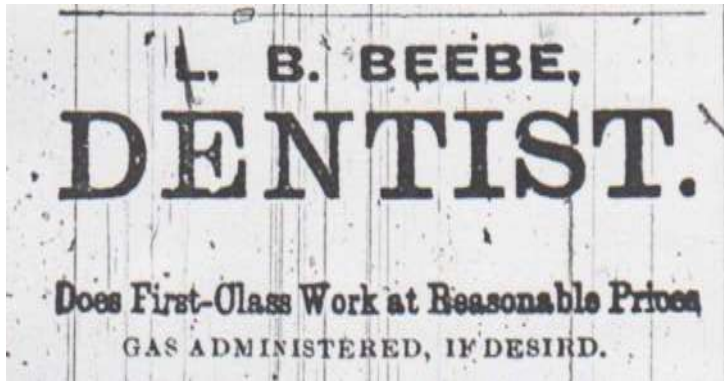

Dr. Beebe has a fine horse and carriage, and is having a nice barn built for them in the rear of his lot.

April 18, 1893, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 3 Evansville, Wisconsin

L. B. BEEBE,
DENTIST.

Does First-Class Work at Reasonable Prices
GAS ADMINISTERED, IF DESIRED.

January 12, 1892, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Ad April 18, 1893, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. J. E. Anthony has moved his office equipment to the second floor of the Cummings & Clark Store in the rooms recently vacated by Dr. Beebe
January 6, 1900, The Badger, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. J. E. Anthony has moved his office from the Baker Block into rooms over Cummings & Clark's store, formerly occupied by Dr. L. B. Beebe.
January 9, 1900 The tribune

Mrs. Alice Beebe Shaw died at the home of Mr. Lyman Johnson in Madison last Saturday and was brought to this city for burial last Sunday at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Shaw was forty five years of age. She was formerly an Evansville girl having lived here for several years with her brother, Dr. Beebe.

Those who remember the rosy cheeked, fair haired girl, will be filled with sadness to learn of her lingering illness of about nine months. But she possessed a beauty of character which nothing could destroy and bore her suffering with patience and fortitude, always speaking words of appreciating for any act of kindness shown her.

She loved the good and beautiful wherever she found them and she so saw good in every one. She was a friend to all.

The funeral was held at Mr. Johnson's. Rev. Gilmore of the Unitarian church officiating. He read the beautiful poem of Edwin Arnold, "He and She," and spoke of the consolations of religion for those who mourn, quoting from Emerson: "What is excellent as God's lives is permanent; hearts are dust, hearts' loves remain; hearts' loves will meet with thee again."

Mrs. Clark sang two solos, "My Rosary" and "I'm Nearer My Home in Heaven Today Than Ever I've Been Before."

The service at the grave was continued by Rev. Smith who spoke appropriate words of comfort and sympathy. And just as the sun was sinking beneath the roseate clouds, her body was laid to rest amid the flowers she loved so well. A sunset of radiant beauty seemed an omen of hope and cheer for the life beyond. Surely He who shapes the rose and tints the evening cloud has taken His own.

She leaves a husband Mr. Levi Shaw, an aged mother, and a brother to mourn their sad loss.
A Friend.

July 30, 1901, The Tribune, p. 3, col. 6, Evansville, Wisconsin

A large number of the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. surprised Comrade L. B. Beebe, Monday evening, it being the occasion of his 57th birthday, and made him a present of a beautiful hat rack, made by Comrade W. S. Austin, of polished horns. The Doctor was in bed when the party arrived, being somewhat more fatigued than usual from riding to Spring Valley and back the day previous and the party arrived rather late, but he was soon up and dressed and enjoyed the complete surprise very much.

April 22, 1902, The Tribune, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

EUGENE WINFIELD BEEBE, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was born in Cheshire, Ontario county, New York, February 21, 1840, the son of Elisha P. and Lorinda A. (Lucas) Beebe. He received his early education in common and private schools of New York and Wisconsin states, and later at Evansville Seminary, Evansville, Wisconsin. He studied for his profession under the preceptorship of Dr. M. L. Belden of Stoughton, Wisconsin, and graduated from Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, Illinois, in 1866. From 1861 to 1865 he was located in Richland Center, Wisconsin, in 1867 moved to Stoughton, Wisconsin, to enter partnership with his former preceptor, Dr. M. L. Belden, and in the following year moved to Evansville, Wisconsin, where he was in successful general and special practice until the year 1879, when he located in the city of Milwaukee to practice ophthalmology and otology, exclusively ; in the same year he was granted the degree of doctor of medicine in the Chicago Hom¹/₂opathic Medical College. In 1871 he took post-graduate work in the New York Ophthalmic Hospital, and in the New York Ophthalmic and Aural Institute, and received the appointment of professor of ophthalmology, otology and laryngology in the Kansas City Homeopathic Medical College in 1891, which position was declined. He is ex-vice-president of the Homeopathic Ophthalmological, Otological and Laryngological Society and has held the offices of president, secretary, and is now treasurer, for the second time, of the Hom¹/₂opathic Medical Society of the State of Wisconsin. Dr. Beebe is a senior member of the American Institute of Hom¹/₂opathy and of the Hom¹/₂opathic Medical Society of the State of Wisconsin ; a member of the Milwaukee Academy of Medicine, and one of the organizers of the American Homeopathic, Ophthalmological, Otological and Laryngological Society. He also is a member of the Association of Opticians and the Masonic Order. He married Frances Augusta Spencer, February 22, 1866, and one child, Claude Spencer Beebe,

M. D., was born to them. Dr. Beebe confines his practice to diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, and was among the first homeopathic specialists west of Chicago.

—Miss Helen Beebe, who has been employed as stenographer in the office of The Baker Mfg. Co. for the past thirteen months, now takes her vacation, leaving this Friday morning for Valparaiso, Ind., to visit her brother Gordon, who is attending the Indiana University. On her return she will stop in Chicago for a visit with friends; upon her return she will resume her work with the Baker Co.

October 19, 1906, Enterprise, p. 3, col. 2,

Evansville, Wisconsin

of Mrs. Lulu Wilson.

. m
. m
. m

—Miss Helen Beebe has resigned her position with the Baker Mfg. Co. of this city, and has accepted a position with Fairbanks, Morse Mfg. Co., of Beloit.

tute a Sen duties from that Hill

March 8, 1907, Enterprise, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin