

son, 1866, 48 acres, $1,400.
Union.—Phillip Cadwallader to Wm H Taggart, 1864, 2½ acres, $50. David Newkirk to Asa Pierce, 1867, ½ acre, $40.
Janesville.—J S Dayton to Justus Dayton, 1866, 18 acres, $800.

August 17, 1867, Janesville Gazette, P. 1,

Janesville, Wisconsin

Miss Maria Cadwallader has closed her school in the Slawson district. This was her second term, and she has been re engaged, which speaks well for the success of a young teacher.

March 18, 1874, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Sketches of the Early History of Union
BY AN OLD SETTLER.

About noon of that day, Hiram Griffith and his father arrived at the camp, coming up from the south, crossing Allen's Creek about where Owen's mill now stands. Mr. Griffith being a man that went through the world with both eyes open discovered at this place a good water power, which he afterwards improved by erecting a sawmill that cut most of the lumber that was used in this vicinity for a number of years.

When he left Rock Grove, thinking the advance party might be getting short of rations, brought along a few bushels of potatoes.

Soon after reaching the camp his father was taken sick, although being a man full of resources, always ready for any emergency, yet the thought of remaining over night with his sick father so far from any human aid almost disheartened him. He finally concluded as the best thing to do, was to go back to Rock Grove as soon as possible, where he emptied his potatoes in a pile on the ground and wrote on the end board again, "Eat up your potatoes and then go to Rock Grove," he started back. As he passed out through that beautiful little opening South of Mr. Munger's, he remarked, "there was where he should stick his stake," and suiting his action to his words, got out of his wagon, cut a stake, kewed the bark off of one side, wrote his name on it and drove it into the ground. This spot is probably a little north of where Mr. Munger's barn now stands.

This was the last and all he had seen of this country until he came on the next spring with his family, driving up to his stake, commenced improvements.

Stephen Jones decided to locate where the camp was, including the spring. And while the rest of the party were employed in looking up section lines and corners, he improved his time in cutting and drawing logs for a house, that he might have the help of the rest of the party to put it up before their proved his time in cutting and drawing logs for a house, that he might have the help of the rest of the party to put it up before their return, which they willingly did.

While they were raising the house there came along a man with a breaking team and plough. He had started from Janesville in search of a job, and seeing wagon tracks, made by this party sagaciously concluded there was an emigrant at the end of it who would want some breaking done, so followed the trail. He was not long in striking a bargain with Mr. Jones to break ten acres, for which he was to receive twenty dollars.

The rest of the party being about ready to start homewards, and not having eaten all their potatoes, gave the remainder to Mr. Jones to plant. He dropped them along the furrows and the plow turned the sod over them. Here was the first house built, the first furrow plowed and the first potatoes planted in the town of Union.

Erastus Quivey selected the land now owned by Joel Campbell, and moved on to it the following November, living in a cloth tent while he erected a small house as a more comfortable shelter for a family of small children, the youngest an infant of only a few months old and which did not survive the hardships of the first winter. It was buried on school section; being the first death and burial in town.

Boyd Phelps selected the farm now owned by Mr. Elnathan Sawtelle, reaching north half a mile, including of what is now the Cemetery, and a part of Mr. C. J. Mitchell's farm.

The rest of the party returned to La Porte without making any selections.

In order to show the influence exerted in the early settlement of this country by Messrs. Quivey and Griffith, following is a list of names, persons who immediately followed them from La Porte county, within a few years, to make their homes in this and adjoining towns, most of whom were personally acquainted with Quivey and Griffith before coming here;

John Blunshart, Wm. Campbell, perpetrator

bigh.
a gre
In for per you
P.
Was
hom
Will
his,
prof land
Mor
Pre
the O goo of earl tion hop
The so peu rel coc jio but ot-the ext uo ple er ph wi
O
ha an m av an se pe
ha h to w ye el m it an

with Quiley and coming here:
John Rhinehart, Wm. Campbell,
Josiah Sperry, Charles Sperry, Joseph Osborn, who settled in the town of Porter. John Griffith, John A. Griffith, John Sale, Joseph Foster, John Enos, Thomas Robinson, Richard Robinson, Phillip Cadwal-lader, Samuel Cadwallader, John M.
Evans, Calvin R. Evans, who settled in the town of Union. Wilson McLaughlin, Seymour Smith, J. W.
Hazelton, John Hazelton, who settled in the town of Brooklyn.

January 17, 1877, Evansville Review, p. 2, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Republican.

Phillip Cadwallader of Evansville, Wis., brother of Supervisor Cadwallader, is making his brother a visit in these parts. It is the design of the gentleman to locate in Bremer if he finds such a farm as he wants. We trust he will have no trouble in this respect for we want all such citizens of Mr. C's mould we can get in Bremer.—Waverly Republican.

April 21, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 2, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Phillip Cadwallader has sold his farm, and next Thursday will sell his personal property at auction, preparatory to moving to Iowa.

April 7, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Miss Kitty Bargewell and Miss Sarah Cadwallader who have been attending the Normal school at Whitewater came home during the last week.

April 7, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

For Sale.

The house formerly owned by Phillip Cadwallader, together with ten acres of land. On this ten acres there is a barn, a well, an orchard and a quantity of small fruit. Terms easy. If not sold soon the house will be to rent.

BAXTER BOYNTON.

April 14, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Philip Cadwallader returned from Iowa last week to remove thither with his family. He has located in Blackhawk Co. Union loses a good citizen and Janesville, Iowa, gets one.

The house formerly owned by Phillip Cadwallader, together with ten acres of land. On this ten acres there is a barn, a well, an orchard and a quantity of small fruit. Terms easy. If not sold soon the house will be to rent.
Baxter Boynton.

April 28, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2 & 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Misses Ella Cadwallader and Netty Bargewell returned from Whitewater Normal School, to spend vacation with home friends here Saturday.

June 23, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Miss Sarah Cadwallader, who has been attending the Whitewater Normal school, stopped a week or two with friends here and left Monday morning for Janesville, Iowa, whether her parents removed this spring.

July 14, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col.2, Evansville, Wisconsin

C. M. Tuttle has sold off another chunk of his farm – 40 acres to Sam'l Cadwallader. This leaves him a pretty good farm of 80 acres, and which he has rented on a five years least to Elmer Bullard. Mr. Bullard will have about as much farming next season as he can turn his hands to. With his home place, he has a quarter section, all under the plow but 25 acres. Mr. Bullard is the man whom we mentioned some time ago as selling a pair of matched blacks for a big price, and were taken to Chicago.

February 15, 1882, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Phillip Cadwallader and daughter, Ellen, who have been visiting old friends here, returned to their home in Janesville, Iowa, on Tuesday evening. They were accompanied by Miss Carrie Axtel and Mrs. Lizzie Devereux.

August 12, 1882, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Cora Cadwallader closed a very successful term of school, last Tuesday, in Dist. No. 4, known as Bullard's district. She was well like and gave satisfaction to the entire direct.

July 3, 1883, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 7, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. S. Cadwallader is having his barn resided and otherwise repaired. Mr. Otis Blackmun is doing the carpenter work.

July 3, 1883, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Edgar Smith and Mr. Eddie Cadwallader, loaded up a car with farm collaterals and started for Dakota, Wednesday. They not only took teams and all the etceteras of farming, but materials suitable and fitted for a comfortable house and horse stable.

March 22, 1884, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Ed Cadwallader started for his Dakota possessions yesterday, taking with him lumber for a house and barn all framed ready to set up and the best wishes of his many friends.

March 25, 1884, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

Miss Cora Cadwallader expects to take out a claim in the D. T.

March 25, 1884, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Edgar Smith and Mr. Eddie Cadwallader loaded up a car with farm collaterals and started for Dakota, Wednesday. They not only took teams and all the etceteras of farming, but materials suitable and fitted for a comfortable house and horse stable.

March 28, 1884, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Sam'l Cadwallader who has been to Chicago the past week, visiting her daughter Cora, returned Monday.

January 28, 1887, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Samuel Cadwallader who went to Iowa week before last to meet other members of the Cadwallader family and have a reunion with brothers and sisters, some of whom he had not seen for many long years, returning Thursday afternoon. He insists that he had a good time and thinks all the rest of the family, kith and kin, are of the same opinion.

He gave us a list of names with their respective ages, and their average weight. His mother's age was 90 years; Joel Lewis, 76 years; Phillip Cadwallader, 68 years; Angelina Wagner, (a sister,) 70 years; Ellen Shaw (a sister,) 64 years; Samuel Cadwallader, (himself,) 66 years; Mary Lewis, (wife of Joel Lewis) 73 years; Mrs. Dodd (youngest sister,) 56 years; Sarah Cadwallader, (daughter of Phillip,) 32 years; Chester Cadwallader, (the youngest brother,) 54 years; Susie, (2d wife of the latter,) 25 years; Mary, (wife of Phillip,) 60 years; Ellen Shaw 64 years; Isaac Barrack, who married the eldest granddaughter of the aged mother and a niece of Samuel, 56 years; Elizabeth, his wife, 46 years. The total weight of the family proper, was 1240, an average weight of 155 pounds. The gross weight of Isaac Barrack, was 244 pounds. It was at the latter's house where most of the turkey was eaten. Several of the Cadwallader family who bear no insignificant record for probity and several other moral qualifications, are known to many of our home readers. They were among our very earliest settlers.

June 10, 1890, Evansville Review, p. 4, Evansville,

Wisconsin

Mr. Milton, eldest son of Phillip Cadwallader, who left here twelve years ago to go with his parents and family to Iowa, arrived at his uncle's W. W. Garfield, Saturday morning before the family were astir. He is a fine young man now. He is pleased to see the improvement that has been wrought in the place since he was a boy playing in our streets or driving the geese to water on the old farm, west of town.

August 16, 1892, Evansville Review, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith received the sad intelligence Sunday that Mr. Phillip Cadwallader's oldest daughter, Ella, died on Tuesday, June 27th, from a surgical operation at their home in Janesville, Iowa.

July 8, 1899, The Badger, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Elizabeth Fairbanks has moved into her residence which she recently purchased of Samuel Cadwallader.
December 22, 1900, The Badger, Evansville, Wisconsin

Carl Brunzell has purchased the ? A. Cadwallader farm, east of this city.

March 10, 1910, Evansville Review

Evansville Native Passes In New York

Mrs. Charles Tuttle, former local resident, died last Thursday in Rochester, N. Y. following an illness of three weeks. Funeral services and burial were held in Rochester Friday.

Mrs. Tuttle was formerly Miss Cora Cadwalder and was born on a farm one mile northeast of Evansville. She grew to young womanhood here and received her education in this locality. After her marriage to Mrs. Tuttle the couple resided in Evansville, Brooklyn, Texas and Madison. While in Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle operated a general store. After Mr. Tuttle's death in Madison several years ago, Mrs. Tuttle went to Rochester to reside with her children.

She is survived by three sons, Ray, Clifton and Fordyce, all of Rochester. The latter is the husband of the former Eleanor Porter of Evansville. Among the survivors are also several grandchildren.

December 30, 1948, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Note that the correct spelling of Cadwalder is Cadwallader