

Mr. B. Frank Browne is about leaving town for a six years tour at Dartmouth College. Frank's energy and ambition for a classic is not to be defeated by no pent up "Utica." Mr. John Mitchell accompanies him for the same laudable purpose. May success attend their noble efforts in the cause of education. They are young men worthy of the highest niche in the temple of fame.

August 5, 1874, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

John Mitchell will occupy the pulpit in the Free Baptist church next Sunday morning.

August 26, 1874, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. G. R. Mitchell and wife started on unpleasant journeys Tuesday morning. The Doctor goes to Evansville where his mother resides and who is very ill and not expected to live. Mrs. Mitchell goes to Green county where she has a sister in like condition.—Richland Co. Republican.

April 21, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 2, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Mr. John Mitchell of Hillsdale College, is making his annual home visit with parents and old friends. He united with the Cong'l church Sunday morning and preached in the Methodist church in the evening. John has always been a Free Baptist, but for some good reasons changes his relation. Services were dismissed in the Cong'l church, Mr. Brown assisting in the former, and uniting his congregation with the Methodist people gave a pretty full attendance to Mr. Mitchell.

May 12, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Really the most pleasant man we met on the streets Monday morning, was our C. J. Mitchel. He informed us that his wife, who has been very low for some weeks and hardly expected to live, was actually getting better—her symptoms in every manner betokens it. We really felt glad, and was pleased to see Mr. Mitchell so buoyant in hope for the recovery of his wife. Dr. Bulson is attending her.

Don Sheriff Ballard under an order s
May 19, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

It
es- —Mrs. C. J. Mitchell, besides doing all her house work and having had a number of attacks of sickness, has, during the past winter, pieced a quilt containing 6078 pieces. Industry and frugality always win success.

7
Wisconsin

O.
C. cc
te
H
C. ui

June 12, 1885, p. 2, Evansville,

At CUMINGS & CLARK'S.
—In one paper who reported the examination of Miss Zoldosky, the alleged Richland Center murderess, says the lady gave Dr. Lovering $500 to speak a good word to Dr. Mitchel. The amount stated was only $5. Should an Evansville paper make a mistake of that kind it would raise a row that even a life sentence on the gallows could not expiate.

col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

February 3, 1891, Evansville Review, p. 1,

Dr. Mitchel, of Richland Center, was in town Monday. He feels badly over the late sad affair in his town, and more so because his name has been associated with it. The Dr. is looking poorly.

February 10, 1891, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin —Reports from Richland Center state that Mrs. Dr. Mitchell's stomach, that was sent to Rush Medical College for analysis, contained traces of strychnine, which caused her death, a year ago.

March 10, 1891, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 5,

Evansville, Wisconsin

—Dr. Mitchell has gone to Evansville on business.—Republican Observer. His business was to attend a birth-day anniversary of his father. There were present besides the doctor, another son, Rev. John Mitchell, of N. H. and two daughters of Mrs. Mitchell and their Families—Mrs. John Reilly and Mrs. R. M. Antes. It was a very pleasant family gathering.

April 5, 1892, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2,

Evansville, Wisconsin

Rev. John C. Mitchel took his departure Wednesday morning for his home at Lebanon, N. H. after an extended and pleasant visit with relatives and friends in this city and Richland Center.

September 6, 1898, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. Geo. Mitchell and family, of Richland Center, have been visiting relatives in this city for the past week. Fred, the oldest son, was First Sergeant with the 4th Wis. Reg. and was stationed in Anniston, Ala., but was mustered out with the company recently. His report of the soldier's rations in camp is not very flattering, he states that part of the time the food was partially palatable but the remainder of the time the company had to be content with that which was very unpalatable, except to a starving man.

April 20, 1899, Evansville Review, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. C. J. Mitchell has sold his farm near the cemetery to Mr. John Wall and has purchased Mr. J. W. Morgan's residence on Maple Avenue, this city.

March 5, 1901, The Tribune, p. 3, col. 5, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Dr. G. R. Mitchell and Miss Anna German of Richland Center, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mitchell over Sunday.

May 14, 1903, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. George Mitchell and sister of Richland Center, visited over Sunday here with relatives.

May 16, 1903, The Badger, p. 5, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. G. R. Mitchell of Richland Center, was summoned here this morning on account of the serious illness of his father, who has been very low for a long time.

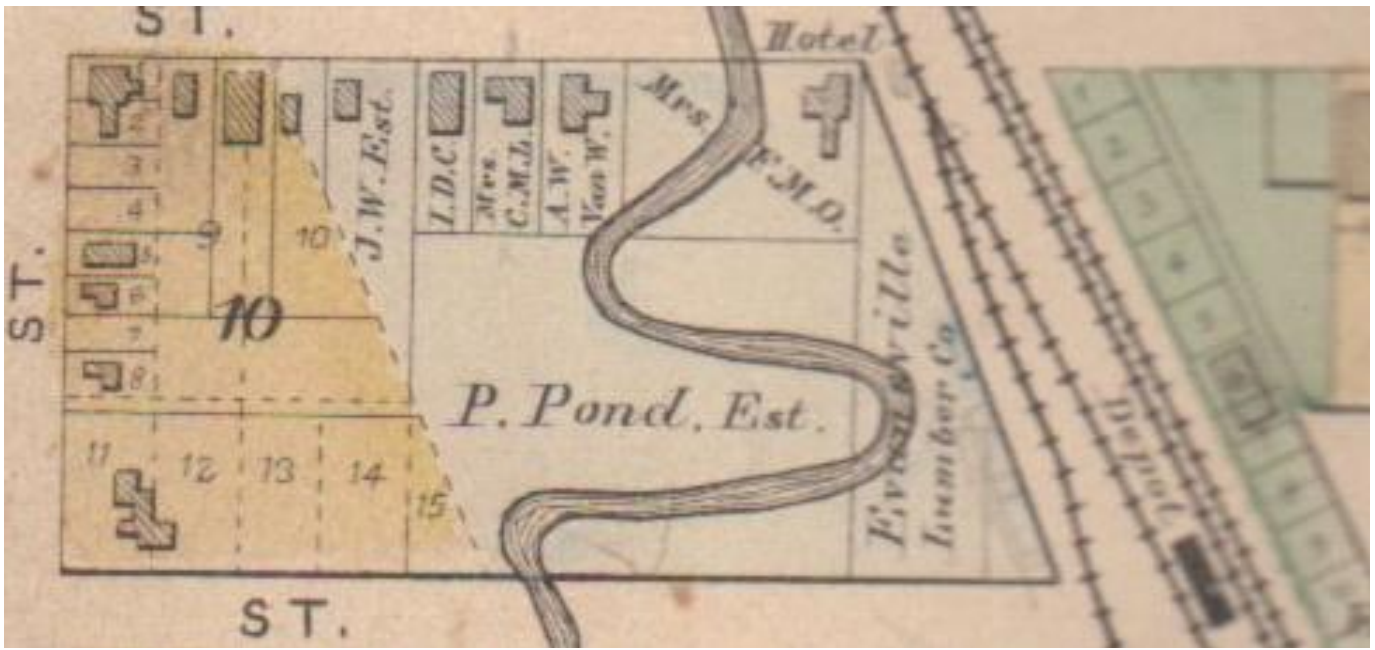

May 21, 1903, The Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Dr. Fred Mitchell of Richland Center, a recent graduate from a medical college in Chicago, visited relatives in this city last Saturday and Sunday.

May 23, 1903, Badger, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Joel W. Morgan and wife to Amanda E. Mitchell lots 13, 14, 15, block 10 Evansville and other land, $825.

May 26, 1903, Enterprise, p. 3, col. 6, Evansville, Wisconsin (see 1891 map below for these lots on East Church Street. )

Dr. Geo. Mitchell returned to Richland Center, Monday, having been called here by the serious illness of his father, Mr. C. J. Mitchell.

May 30, 1903, The Badger, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

The death of Cyrus J. Mitchell Wednesday afternoon removes another old settler from our midst. His death while not wholly unexpected was sorrowful for the fact that the last few days of his life were not devoid of pain and suffering and when the final end came, it was felt that his troubles were over.

To the last he retained his senses, and before the final hour came he seemed to have a premonition of his death. At 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon he remarked that when the six o'clock whistles blew he would pass away, and just as the time came, he took his final sleep.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Jefferson county N. Y., April 1, 1821 and therefore was 82 years of age. He came to Wisconsin in 1844 and located on a farm east of the city, where he remained a number of years. In 1882 he married his present wife Mrs. Amanda Cornelius, who survives him. Besides a wife he leaves two sons by a former wife Rev. J. C. Mitchell of Lebanon N. H., and Dr. G. R. Mitchell of Richland Center, with these are Mrs. J. E. Reilly and Mrs. R. M. Antes step daughters who feel keenly the loss of a kind husband and father.

Funeral services are to be held at the house Saturday morning at 9:30. The Rev. James Churm officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mrs. Copp.

June 4, 1903, Evansville Review, Evansville,

Wisconsin

Mrs. C. J. Mitchell left Tuesday afternoon for a visit for a month with relatives in Toledo, Perrysburg, Bowling Green and other points in Ohio.

August 22, 1903, The Badger, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

OBITUARY

Sophia Jane Mitchell was born Sept. 15, 1857, in Green County, near Juda, Wis., and passed away at her home in Evansville, Feb. 15, 1918. She was a daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Mitchell, who preceded her to the home beyond many years ago.

She was united in marriage to Jacob T. Berryman of Juda, Apr. 1, 1883, by Rev. G. R. Patton.

Their union was blessed by four daughters, Mrs. Pearl Nyman of Spring Valley, Mrs. Mae Palmer of Footville, Mrs. Myrtle Limber of Evansville, and the remaining daughter at home, Miss Ruth Berryman.

In her early life she united with the Baptist church of Juda and remained a consistent member of that church until her death.

She had been confined to her bed since Dec. 30, 1917, but loving hands did every thing possible to alleviate her suffering, and she passed peacefully away Friday, at 1:20 p. m.

A short service was held at the home on Madison street, Sunday afternoon, and the regular funeral service was held at Juda on Monday at noon. Rev. Pearce of the Baptist church officiated.

She leaves to mourn her loss a kind and loving husband, four daughters, six grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Carrie E. Hunt, of Freeport, Ill.

She will be greatly missed by her many friends and neighbors, as she was always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those in trouble.

SON. DURING WAS MENT
 cemetery, near his home.

JOHN C. MITCHELL, 83, DIES IN IDAHO

Once a Resident of Evansville, Rev. Mitchell Ranks Among Great Preachers

The Review is this week in receipt of a clipping from the Boise, Idaho, Statesman, announcing the death of Rev. Mr. John C. Mitchell, aged 83, who will be remembered as an Evansville boy many years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Mitchell, who lived on a farm just north of Maple Hill cemetery.

Mr. Mitchell was educated in the Evansville seminary, later getting his theological education at Yale and Harvard.

In a large feature write-up of Mr. Mitchell and his life the Boise paper says:

"I would make more of the first 20 years of my life," he said. "I would not waste so much time in games indoors and outdoors and in hunting and fishing." (Mr. Mitchell dearly loved to fish.) I would not spend so much time on dead languages and higher mathematics. I would live among people who liked me, never among those who did not like me. I would marry younger. (Mr. Mitchell married when he was 27.)

An evidence of his keen mind was shown when, at the age of 62, he decided to leave the pulpit. Speaking of this depressing time of his life, before he had readjusted himself, Mr. Mitchell said: "In time I discovered that no one cared to hear an old man preach. The preacher, like the lover, Calif.; is not attractive after he is 60 years old, so every up-to-date church gives him a pension. The church prefers

He wen
 in this sc spot, our and $1.20
 they must grains, fo
 none to s Followi
 sion the til next ward con plete the paign.

DANGI
 IV

Madisc
 ed poiso timize m quiet coll
 ical Soci ceived t
 "In th and berry principa brilliant of wint they be sap of t be taug ivy pla plant sc ognize l exposur
 Earli sued a ivy pla in the c benefit tracted
 the Soc view a tion of advice
 "Pol
 leaves

The Evan

to pay him to keep still, rather than to preach. Cruel, but a fact.

Mr. Mitchell spent last winter with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Allen, of Pocatello, and returned to his ranch this spring, where he has been most of the time. He lunched with friends at a downtown cafe just two days before he died, at a Boise hospital. He suffered from a stroke.

Mr. Mitchell was decidedly a social being, and on his eightieth birthday he invited a group of 30 close friends to help him celebrate the occasion at a dinner at one of the large hotels. He continued this pleasant social feature up to last year.

of September 24, 1936, Evansville Review, p. 4, Col. 2 and 3, Evansville,