

Sawin Family
Researched by Ruth Ann Montgomery

His tombstone in Maple Hill Cemetery, Evansville reads: Ethan P. Sawin born September 10, 1824 died April 18, 1903. He is buried with his wife, Harriet L., Albert W. Sawin; and Ethel Sawin, daughter of Albert & J. H.

In another part of the cemetery is Lorenzo B. Sawin, born August 6, 1829 and died July 25, 1891 and his wife Helen N. (Webster) Sawin born August 6, 1837 and died February 28, 1911. and a Charles Sawin who died January 31, 1928.

There was also a Juliette Sawin who married Dr. Charles M. Smith. "Married May 16, 1861 by Rev. D. S. Starr, at the residence of the bride's father, Rev. J. Sawin, Dr. Charles M. Smith of Elm Point, Ill and Miss Juliette Sawin, of Brooklyn, Green Co., Wis."

May 20, 1861, Janesville Daily Gazette.

Charley Sawin's sister, a Mrs. Curtis and her husband, have been in town a number of days, left for Ft. Atkinson thence for their home in Mapletown, Iowa.

July 30, 1886, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. A. M. Sawin, nee Josie Hull, who went to Mankato soon after her marriage last autumn, returned the latter part of the week to the old home on Church street. Mr. Sawin will join her at the holidays.

December 25, 1885, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

7
1
3
1 1 e 1 t
8
1

Taken Up.
CAME INTO the enclosure of the subscriber on the 29th day of Aug., one red yearling steer and one nearly white yearling bull, said premises are on Section 17, town of Union: J. A. SAWIN.
Union, Sept. 2, 1874. 18w4

September 9, 1874, Evansville

Review, p. 4, advertisement, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. A. J. Sawin, senior editor of the Independent, Madison, Wis., is spending a few days in Evansville and surrounding country. He called at the Review office Monday and seemed in good health and spirits.

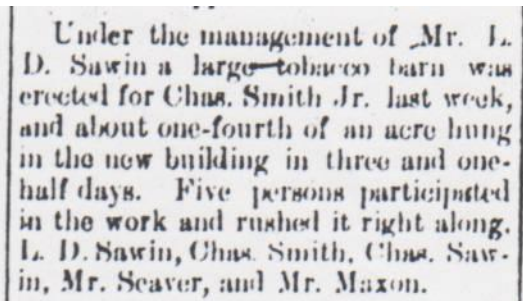

September 3, 1879, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

The marriage of Albert M. Sawin and Miss Josephine Hull, both of this place, was witnessed by a large circle of invited friends and relatives of both parties, at the residence of the bride's parents, on Church street, on Tuesday evening last. There was a good display of presents, some very nice and elegant. The parties will remain in Evansville until the opening of the fall term of school, when they will go to Austin, Minn., where Mr. Sawin takes charge of the mathematical department of the high school, in that city.

June 26, 1885, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Married. Sawin - Hull At the home of the bride, Tuesday evening, June 23, 1885, by Rev. E. R. Curry, Mr. Albert M. Sawin and Miss Josephine Hull.

June 26, 1885, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Under the management of Mr. L. D. Sawin a large tobacco barn was erected for Chas. Smith Jr. last week, and about one-fourth of an acre hung in the new building in three and one-half days. Five persons participated in the work and rushed it right along. L. D. Sawin, Chas. Smith, Chas. Sawin, Mr. Seaver, and Mr. Maxon.

September 1, 1885, Enterprise, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. A. M. Sawin has gone to Baltimore, Md. To continue his work in mathematics at Johns Hopkins University expecting to remain during the coming winter.

October 6, 1886, Enterprise, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. Albert Sawin and family take their departure for Laramer City Wyoming Ter. where Mr. S. has accepted the position of Professor of the Laramer City College this with the departure of Miss Hattie Hull, will leave a lonesome Father and Mother at Mr. Hull's home in this place taking four from his family within a week, two daughters, his son-in-law, and a dear darling baby.

September 17, 1887, The Tribune, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. Albert Sawin, wife and child, left Monday for Larami City, Wyoming Tr. A good many moist eyes of parents and friends, bade goodbye to son, daughter, and gave a sweet kiss to babe, at the depot, as the party took the 2:10 train for Chicago, thence west. Mr. Sawin has the mathematical chair of the new university just opened there. The Professor and wife leave a good many friends who regret the necessity for their departure, although not so far away but an often friendly missive will convey cheering words to friends at home.

September 23, 1887, Evansville Weekly Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sawin expect soon to leave their new home in Larami, Wyoming T., and spend the greater part of the vacation with their friends here. Mr. Sawin is a professor of mathematics in the University of Wyoming.

June 11, 1889, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

E. P. Sawin is very low, and faint hopes are had for his recovery. His complaint is general debility, dropsy, and a complete breaking down of his system.

March 24, 1891, Evansville Review, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. E. P. Sawin on the next lot South (of Harry Blakeley on South Madison Street) is having his house newly painted. G. A. Backenstoe wields the brush, and by the way, Mr. Sawin has the finest field of strawberries of any man in town.

June 13, 1893, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mrs. Dr. Smith, Sr., Mrs. A. Baldwin, and Mrs. John Montgomery, have received the sad news that their sister, Mrs. Gott, of Burlington, was very dangerously ill, where they expect to go today.

September 28, 1894, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 6, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Albert Sawin and Jay Baldwin returned to the University Monday for the second semester.

February 20, 1897, The Badger, p. 1 col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. Albert Sawin will soon leave for Atlanta, Ga., Where he has accepted the position of Professor of Mathematics.

August 7, 1897, the Badger, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. A. W. Sawin has accepted the chair of mathematics at Clark University, Georgia.

August 6, 1897, The Enterprise, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Charles Sawin, now located at Clyborn Junction, near Chicago, called on relatives and friends in this city, Saturday. Mr. Sawin was one of the first in our employ at the commencement of our newspaper career, seventeen years ago, and we were glad to greet him with a friendly shake at our office after twelve years separation.

May 6, 1898, Enterprise, p. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. Frank Sawin, of Three Oaks, Michigan, took his departure Tuesday, after spending a few weeks with relatives in this city.

July 20, 1899, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

Professor Albert Sawin of Atlanta University is spending his summer in this vicinity with his parents and friends. He has been tendered a very fine position in Syracuse University and we are told is holding the same under consideration. Professor Sawin is a mathematician of world wide reputation and any institution that is able to secure the services of this scholarly gentleman is fortunate indeed.

July 22, 1899, The Badger, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. Albert Sawin and wife and children left Tuesday for Syracuse, N. Y. where Mr. Sawin will be the instructor of mathematics in the university.

Sept. 16, 1899, The Badger, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

Mr. A. J. Cook and family of Cresco, Ia., have recently moved into the Alvin Sawin residence on W. Main Street. Mr. Cook has moved here to educate his children, and expects to purchase property and become a permanent resident of our city, to which he and his family are very welcome.

December 9, 1902, The Tribune, p. 3, col. 6, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. Albert Sawin of Brooklyn, N. Y., was an arrival Friday, on account of the dangerous illness of his father, E. P. Sawin.

April 14, 1903, The Tribune, Evansville, Wisconsin and April 17, 1903, The Enterprise, p. 3, col. 6, Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. A Sawin of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived Saturday. His father E. P. Sawin being very sick.

April 16, 1903, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin.

Mr. E. P. Sawin is still very ill. His son, Prof. A. M. Sawin of New York, has been with him for the past week.

April 18, 1903, The Badger, p. 1, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

11
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29 30 31 32
33
34 35
36
37
38
39 40
41 42
43
44
45
46
47 48 49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56 57
58 59 60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67
68
69
70 71
72
73
74
75
76
77
78
79 80
81
82
83
84
85
86 87
88 89 90
91
92
93
94
95
96
97
98
99
100

Mr. Ethan P. Sawin, aged 79 years, died at his home on S. Madison street, Saturday morning, April 18, 1903, after a long, lingering illness.

The deceased was born in Chenango county, N. Y. Came to Wisconsin with his parents in 1846, who located in Green county, entering a quarter of a section of land in section 12 in the town of Brooklyn, upon which he built a shanty into which the family numbering wife and ten children moved and began life in a true pioneer style. The stars could be seen through the roof of the little cabin and in winter the snow drifted over the beds, but notwithstanding the hardships to be endured prosperity attended the little band of emigrants, and success crowned their efforts to that extent that in 1846-1847 a comfortable frame residence was built, the lumber being hauled from Racine.

The subject of our sketch a young pioneer then soon started out to make a home for himself which was soon accomplished, but being overtaken with old age and ill health he retired from farming and moved into this city, where he has enjoyed the highest esteem of all who knew him for several years. He leaves a wife and two sons, Albert M. now engaged in business in the east and Charles who still remains at home, all of whom have a host of friends who sympathise with them in their deep affliction. The funeral was held at the home this Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Pierce of Wonnewoc officiating.

After t ing and ored us Maggie history present struggl pastor forts n struct in it a its sac
The
to the ones d that t proacl promi ered t
C. S marks the fu in th migh build to th
to th
This grete the o futur cost is un hall, long W to tl so g

You can obtain more for your money

"Ethan P. Sawin died at his home in this city, Saturday morning, April 18, aged 79. The deceased was the last of the Sawin brothers, so well known in this section of the country, to go to his final resting place. A sturdy pioneer of Wisconsin, and an estimable citizen; one whose friendship was a pleasure to have and keep. Like all the early settlers he kept pace with the progress of the times and was ready to go when the summons came. He leaves a wife two sons, one Charles E. living at home, and Albert M., a resident of Brooklyn N. Y., to feel keenly the loss of a doting husband and a kind father.

Funeral services were held at the residence Tuesday morning, Mrs. Etta Pierce of Wonevok officiating."
April 23, 1903, Evansville Review

Professor A. M. Sawin has just published another research at the University of Virginia. It treats of the Lagrangian equations published in the Annals of Mathematics.
April 10, 1906, The Tribune, Evansville, Wisconsin

ANNALS OF MATHEMATICS.

VOL. VI.

JUNE, 1891.

NO. 1.

LAGRANGE'S SEXTIC.

By PROF. ALBERT M. SAWIN, Laramie, Wyo.

It has been for a long time considered that Lagrange's method for the reduction of the quintic equation depended upon the solution of an auxiliary equation of the sixth degree, known and designated by him as a "Sextic Resolvent." While this equation has been the subject of a good deal of valuable literature, and, with its analogues, occupies an important place in the theory of equations, I am not aware that it has been shown that this resolvent of a higher degree is not necessary to the application of Lagrange's method. It is the object of the present paper to show that Lagrange's "Sextic Resolvent" is not necessary to the resolution of the quintic equation in the application of his own method for its reduction, and neither does it require a resolvent equation of a higher degree than the fifth degree for this purpose.

Denoting the five roots of the quintic by a, b, c, d, e , and the roots of $\omega^5 - 1 = 0$ by $1, \omega, \omega^2, \omega^3, \omega^4$, we may write the entire six Lagrangian groups as follows :

$$M_1 \begin{cases} (a + \omega b + \omega^2 c + \omega^3 d + \omega^4 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^2 b + \omega^4 c + \omega d + \omega^3 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^3 b + \omega c + \omega^4 d + \omega^2 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^4 b + \omega^3 c + \omega^2 d + \omega e)^5 \end{cases}$$

$$N_1 \begin{cases} (a + \omega c + \omega^2 b + \omega^3 d + \omega^4 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^2 c + \omega^4 b + \omega d + \omega^3 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^3 c + \omega b + \omega^4 d + \omega^2 e)^5 \\ (a + \omega^4 c + \omega^3 b + \omega^2 d + \omega e)^5 \end{cases}$$

Evansville Man Will Apply for Patent on Engine.

Prof. Sawin, well known to many of the readers of the Enterprise, is just about to apply for a patent upon one of his new inventions. He is a proficient scholar and a learned man. Can any one doubt Prof. Sawin's integrity of intellect and be credited with the belief that he is an inventor? The perfect steam engine has just been completed and this engine allows the steam to expand to its fullest extent if it is desired. Prof. Sawin is a gentleman of mature years of untarnished reputation and a financier. He is about to let the contract to manufacture his engine to some Buffalo electricians who advertise for this engine. Prof. Sawin has just published a technical manual fully describing the Perfect Steam Engine. **

November 2, 1906, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 6,
Evansville, Wisconsin

Prof. A. M. Sawin recently of this city, has been appointed to succeed Miss Martha Nye, Ph. D., as head professor of mathematics in Rockford College, Rockford, Ill. Mr. Sawin has been identified with several colleges as professor of mathematics. He held this position formerly in the University of Wyoming, and later in Clark University, Georgia. His Evansville friends will be glad to learn of his acceptance of the new position.

January 14, 1915, Evansville Review, p. 8, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

The readers of The Rview have observed that Prof. A. M. Sawin, of this city, a year ago, was temporarily called to fill the place of the head of mathematics in Rockford college. Prof. Sawin has now been elected sectional superintendent of that part of Walla Walla which lies across the state line in Oregon. His many friends wish him the best success in his new undertaking.

September 14, 1916,

Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

Julius Jensen has purchased the Sawin house on Madison Street.

February 25, 1921, "Evansville" news, p. 7, Janesville Daily Gazette, Janesville, Wisconsin

Emery School House Moved To Libby Farm

On account of there being a shortage of children in the district, the old Fred Emery school district has been consolidated with the Pleasant Prairie and Butts Corners districts and school house sold and moved to the E. H. Libby farm where it is being converted into a residence.

This school house was built in 1872 and in it many of the now old settlers of that locality received their education.

The leading families of the district at the time of the school house was built were those of Fred Emery, the families of David James and Edward Rowley, Alonzo Sawin, and Edward Devereaux.

October 6, 1927,

Evansville Review, p. Evansville, Wisconsin

Juliette Sawin Smith
1839-1923

In the death of Mrs. Dr. Chas. M. Smith, Sr., Evansville is called upon to mourn the loss of one of her pioneer citizens.

Juliette Sawin, the youngest child of Rev. Sawin and Orrel Tennant Sawin, was born at Ripley, Chautauqua County, New York, September 3, 1839. In 1841 the family came to Wisconsin, settling near Brooklyn, Green County, where Mrs. Smith grew to womanhood and where she was united in marriage with Dr. Charles Mortimer Smith in 1861.

Mrs. Smith came of one of those cultured, educated eastern families which have done so much for the country in which they settled, bringing with them and developing their ideas of culture and education.

During her whole life, excepting a few months spent at Greenville, Illinois, shortly after her marriage, she was a resident of Evansville and she gave freely of the best that was in her for the advancement and the betterment of the community. She was a lifelong member of the Episcopal Church to which she gave freely of both her means and time, and in no place will she be more missed than among her church friends.

Since the death of her husband, Dr. Charles Mortimer Smith, she has made her home with her son, Dr. Charles M. Smith at Evansville, with the exception of the past three years, when she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. George Gordon, at Lodi, where her death occurred Sunday, June 24, 1923. Mrs. Smith was the mother of two children, both of whom survive her, Mrs. Flora Smith Gordon of Lodi, Wisconsin and Dr. Charles M. Smith of Evansville.

June 28, 1923, Evansville Review, p. 4, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

Ray S. Hyne

Ray S. Hyne, known as Tracy, native of this area and long time resident of the city, died in his home here last week Thursday after a long illness.

He was the son of the late Frank and Ida Sawin Hyne. He was born May 6, 1885 in this area and attended the Evansville schools. For many years he was associated with his father here in an automobile agency. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Evansville. His wife, the former Rissa Baker, died in 1949.

Among his survivors are his sister-in-law, Mrs. Iva Hyne, Evansville, a nephew, Hugh Hyne, Evansville and two nieces, Mrs. I. Myrland, Beloit and Mrs. James Grenawalt, Evansville.

Funeral services, arranged by the Roderick-Ward Funeral Home, were held Saturday afternoon and burial was in Maple Hill Cemetery.

December 11, 1969, Evansville Review, p. 2, col.

3, Evansville, Wisconsin