

We understand that Mr. Barney Standish has been engaged as Principal and his sister Laura as assistant, of the Postville (Iowa) High School, and will leave some time during the week for that place. We congratulate the people of Postville upon securing their able services.

September 8, 1880, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin

William Hurlburt has purchased the Widow Chester's place on Mill street between Madison and First, now occupied by Geo. P. Winston from Wm. Standish for $700.

March 16, 1881, Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

New signs of activity are daily noticeable in our city. Mr. B. H. Standish is arranging to make an addition to his house. He intends to extend the wing on the East fourteen feet, thereby adding room made necessary by our cold and stormy winters. Mr. Standish has a pretty location on Church street and this improvement will enhance the beauty and comfort of his home.

May 2, 1890, Evansville Review, Evansville, Wisconsin

✓
—Mr. Standish thinks we were in error last week in mentioning the division line between his premises and those of Mr. Gray. Possibly we may have been in error, but we only repeated what the county surveyor had established. Mr. Standish is of the opinion, founded on the best legal talent of Evansville, that twenty years of peaceable possession establishes lines, however awry they may have been. We don't know as to that. Mr. Gray gave us the lines made by the surveyor, and having no means to verify their accuracy made use of them as they were given to us. If Mr. Standish loses a little from the East side of his lot he gains it on the West side, that is the only point of difference we can see.

The original surveys and platings of the older part of the village, are found many times, at a great varyance from truth, and as lot owners wanted to establish accurate boundaries they have had their lots surveyed. Remote from the business center the land is not of that value to cause any litigation, only a little inconvenience and re-adjusting of new lines.

We had no intention of trespassing upon anyone's rights and privileges in our article last week, and if our language conveyed any such impression, we beg pardon.

I
exc tall bec to s at ple tha a r mi abl
hav by Sto
no sui bu art dra wi “f tic me
Ju
W
an tic
of fa je
E

The Davy Electric Belt Co. of this place has received an order from the State University of Wisconsin, for a power battery made of the little cells that they use in their belts. The secretay B. H. Standish, has just shown it to us. It consists of 220 cells, is now ready to ship. It is all contained in a handy box, but if taken out it would form a continuous battery more than 18 ft, long. This doubtless, is the highest scientific endorsement ever given to any electric belt.

January 21, 1893, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

—The Secretary of the Davy Electric Belt Co., of this place, has just shown us a power battery ordered of them by the University of Wis. Mr. Phifer did the wood-work and the cells are the same as are used in their electric belts, only there are 220 in this, while they only use from 6 to 16 in their belts. This they believe to be the highest scientific endorsement ever given to the battery of any electric belt.

January 27, 1893, Enterprise, p. 4, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

—Mr. B. H. Standish is home for a few days from Minneapolis where he has established his headquarters in the electric belt business, 230 Hennepin Ave. Mr. Standish informs us that it is much colder and more snow in Minneapolis, six inches having fallen in one night. His family will remain here during this summer for fear of sickness in the city. We are pleased to learn that his trade is rapidly increasing with very bright prospects for the future.

April 21, 1893, Enterprise, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

y | —Mr. B. H. Standish, expecting to | a i- | move to Minneapolis, offers to sell | t y | his property on Church street, also a | h two-seated surrey.

June 30, 1893, The Enterprise, p. 1, col. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

Real Estate Information on Lot 29, Hunt and Spencer's Addition:

336 South Second Street

Page 185-186, Book 66

#15, December 1883, Samuel Hunt to Joel Morgan, WD $400

#28, November 15, 1890, Joel Morgan to Marian Tewksbury, WD, $370

#29, November 17, 1890, Marian Tewksbury to Laura Mae Standish, Mortgage $700

#36, March 4, 1892, Marion Tewksbury and Husband, to Eva M. Pullen, Mtg. $160

#54 June 18, 1896, Marian A. Tewksbury and William G., to John Wilson, Mtg. $100

#64, April 1898, Marian A. Tewksbury and Husband to Elmer H. Libby, WD $200

#65, September 17, 1898, Elmer Libby to Albert Webb, W.D. $1,500

vited.
the ision
It is rove ex-sid-rip-tin-sher ears e to tofhey
—On election day Willie Standish, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H.
Standish, of this city, met with a serious accident, a wagon in which he was riding having been overturned, and falling on the boy, fractured one bone of his leg. The fracture was reduced and for a short time he appeared alright, but then an acute attack of appendicitis set and it was feared an operation would have to be resorted to, but at last accounts he was considerably improved.

lv November 11, 1908, the Enterprise and The Tribune, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin

DISTINGUISHED NATURALIST AND AUTHOR

EVANSVILLE MOURNS THE LOSS OF A PUBLIC-SPIRITED CITIZEN

Barney Hoskin Standish, while native of western New York, of purely New England extraction. His father, William Standish, who was a direct descendant of the eldest of Miles Standish, was from Vermont. His mother, Maria Standish, belonged to a New Hampshire family.

Standish when a boy of ten, with his parents and sister Anna, as far west as Michigan, where the family resided until the son was a young man. They then removed to this city where the parents spent the remainder of their years.

Here the son and daughter were prepared at the seminary for the University of Wisconsin. At the latter institution Mr. Standish developed a taste for literature and early distinguished himself in prose and poetry.

About twenty years ago the family moved to Minneapolis where Miss Standish still resides, being one of the city superintendents of schools. Here Mr. Standish continued his literary work and scientific research. About five years ago he returned to Evansville.

Possessed of a serene temperament, together with an analytical mind he was

"Himself to nature's heart so near

That all her voices in his ear
Of beast or bird had meanings clear;

He knew the tales the sparrows told."

He has won a name nationwide as a naturalist being best

"The Republic Defenceless," has been honored by having the introduction written and signed by the naval hero, Rear-Admiral Hobson. He has also made contributions to comic opera. Several of his manuscripts are now in the hands of publishers.

Preservation of the forests, protection of the native birds and fishes was a work in which Mr. Standish was greatly interested. He was active in promoting the movement to preserve our park and to add to it. His work was helpful in procuring the gift of the Leonard park. In all matters pertaining to public welfare and advancement he was sure to be found on the right side.

In December 1883, Mr. Standish was married to Miss Laura May Richards, a university acquaintance, of Brooklyn, Wis. There are three children in their family: Mrs. Bertha Shropshire of Los Angeles, Mrs. Helen Fernhaber of Winnipeg, Manitoba, and William Richards Standish who lives at home.

From the hour of Mr. Standish's death the home was filled with guests and friends who showered upon them words of sympathy and neighbors as they felt a great and noble life had been taken and for an opportunity to express their appreciation of such A funeral service occurred from the First Baptist church Sunday at 3 p. m., the Rev. J. L. Taber of the First Baptist church officiating. The house was a beautiful floral bower arranged by loving hands, a fitting tribute to one who was an authority upon plant life. Many out of town friends and relatives from Minneapolis, Madison, Janesville, Oregon and Brooklyn were present. Interment was made at Maple Hill.

September 21, 1911, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 1, Evansville, Wisconsin

We understand the Gillies store room, formerly occupied by the late A. I. Taggart, has been leased by Mr. Wm. Standish, who will put in an up to date moving picture show. The floor will be raised, a stage, 12 by 24, built, a first class operating room and ticket booth. Comfortable opera house chairs will be installed together with a complete equipment of every kind.

Feb. 6, 1913, Evansville Review, p. 5, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin ton, Janesville, died in 1928.

FORMER CITIZEN HERE DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. May Standish Brady Succumbs In Hollywood Jan. 23; Burial Is Made Here

Mrs. May Richards Standish Brady, a former resident of this city died at 3 p. m., Wednesday, Jan. 23, in a hospital at Hollywood, Calif. Funeral services were held here at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Masonic temple, the Rev. Robert H. Pratt of the Baptist church officiating. Interment was made in Maple Hill cemetery with an Eastern Star burial service.

Mrs. Brady had been in poor health for some time. She was born in Evanston, Ill., being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Richards. She attended school in Evanston and was later graduated from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

After teaching school in Minneapolis, Minn., for a number of years the deceased married Barney Standish on her father's farm near Brooklyn, New York and they settled in Evansville. Three children were born, two daughters and one son.

Mr. and Mrs. Standish lived in Evansville for several years moving from here to Minneapolis where they resided 16 years before returning to Evansville. Mrs. Standish married M. C. Brady 13 years ago at Minneapolis and they made their home here. Mr. Brady died Jan. 1, 1925.

Mrs. Brady attended the local Baptist church, was a member of the Eastern Star here, and was prominent in club work and socially active in child welfare work. Besides a host of friends, the deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bertha Shropshire, Hollywood, Cal., and Mrs. Helen Firnhaber, Milwaukee; one son, William Standish, Minneapolis; and two grandsons.

are field

Th and tele in n hunc
In c estir
Revi
of a item tere app
In
year exp hist in r

RE

Fre
u

A
Sat
wee nia hin
Be
of

I
Jan les
In
tic
sta wo go Pa

th
Pa

P

Books & other writings by Barney Hoskin Standish

Shadowlight: A poem

- Publisher: Enterprise print • Published: , 1885
- Author: Barney Hoskin Standish

Lowest Amazon UK price: * • More information from Amazon UK

Find this book at these other UK stores: • Abebooks UK • The Bookplace • WH Smith

Country life and agricultural education,: Based on a study of nature and agriculture, and developed by composition

- Publisher: United States Agricultural Society • Published: , 1904
- Author: Barney Hoskin Standish

Lowest Amazon UK price: * • More information from Amazon UK

Find this book at these other UK stores: • Abebooks UK • The Bookplace • WH Smith

Common things with common eyes

- Publisher: Standish & Standish • Published: , 1897
- Author: Barney Hoskin Standish

Lowest Amazon UK price: * • More information from Amazon UK

Find this book at these other UK stores: • Abebooks UK • The Bookplace • WH Smith

Among the dells: A poem

- Publisher: D. Atwood, printer • Published: , 1885
- Author: Barney Hoskin Standish

Lowest Amazon UK price: * • More information from Amazon UK

Find this book at these other UK stores: • Abebooks UK • The Bookplace • WH Smith